

Relational Leadership and Learning for Hope-full and Sustainable Futures

An International Dialogue

3-5 October 2013 Santa Fe New Mexico USA

The Inaugural International Dialogue on Relational Leadership and Learning for Hope-full and Sustainable Futures will be held in Santa Fe, New Mexico, USA, 3-5 October 2013.

Purpose

The purpose of the event is to 're-claim' the primacy of relationships in learning and leadership formation. This will be done through sharing stories, practices, research, beliefs and values about becoming and being people who deeply care about hope-full and sustainable futures for all.

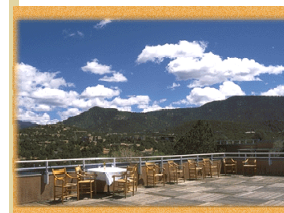

The International Dialogue will culminate with the launching of the International Centre for Relationships in Education (ICRE). Fundamentally, the ICRE will commence with the outcomes of the International Dialogue and contributions individuals make, and want to make into the future.

Participants

It is open to people committed to progressing a greater role, significance and place for relational leadership and learning in vocations of all kinds, in communities, in personal and professional contexts, with nature and the built environment.

Facilitators

Dr George Otero from the Center of Relational Learning, New Mexico, Associate Professor David Giles, Dean, School of Education, Flinders University, Adelaide, Australia, Professor John Halsey, Sidney Myer Chair of Rural Education and Communities, Flinders University, Professor Jonathon Lear from Chicago University, and academics from England, New Zealand, Mexico, Australia, Canada and the United States will share their work and enable dialogue.

Call for Papers

To facilitate dialogue and discussion papers of up to 2000 words are invited which authors believe illuminate the title and the purpose of this inaugural event. APA referencing (see www.flinders.edu.au/slc_files/Documents/Brochures/apa_referencing.pdf) is required if papers include references to other published works, research, reports, etc. Due date for Papers is 31st July 2013. Papers will be considered and then made available as pre-reading for the International Dialogue by 10th September.

Abstracts of 100-150 words must be submitted by Friday 10 May to marja.vanbreda@flinders.edu.au.

Information and Registration

The International Dialogue will be held at St John's College 1160 Camino Cruz Blanca Santa Fe New Mexico, see <http://conferenceservices.sjcsf.edu/>. The event cost is USD$325.00 which includes refreshments only. Accommodation, lunch and dinner are not included.

Registrations: www.relationalearning.com.

Social Media

A Facebook page is up and we encourage you to visit it for continuing updates: www.facebook.com/InternationalDialogueSantaFe2013. Please let others know about it. Information also available on <http://www.flinders.edu.au/ehl/education/rural/building-communities/> and www.relationalearning.com.

The International Dialogue is an initiative of the School of Education, Flinders University, Adelaide, Australia, the Sidney Myer Chair of Rural Education and Communities, School of Education, Flinders University, and the Center for Relational Learning, Santa Fe, New Mexico.